Applicant's arguments filed 3-27-06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Rejection under 35 USC 103 is withdrawn in light of applicants' amendment. Obviousness-type double patenting rejection has been overcome by the Terminal Disclaimer received 8-10-04.

The following are set forth in light of applicants' amendments:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23 and 29-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Heinemann et al.(6,306,920) in view of Grimminger(5,958,990).

Heinemann et al. discloses preparations of rigid polyurethane foams prepared by mixing and reacting polyol and polyisocyanate in the presence of customary catalysts in polyurethane chemistry, HFC 245fa as a blowing agent, water, auxiliary agents inclusive of stabilizers and flame retardants, and other compounds of functionalities of 2 or more which may function as chain extenders and crosslinkers(see column 2 line 8 – column 4 line 41, and the examples, as well as, the entire document).

Heinemann et al. differs from applicants' claims in that the specific catalysts of applicants' claims are not recited as being employed. However, Grimminger discloses trimethylpropylenediamine to be a customary catalyst employed in polyurethane chemistry for the purpose of imparting its well known trimerization catalyzing effect in polyurethane/polyisocyanurate foam preparations(see abstract, column 1 lines 25-30, and column 3 line 53, as well as, the entire document. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art to have employed the trimethylpropylenediamine catalyst of Grimminger as the customarily employed catalyst in the preparations of Heinemann et al. for the purpose of imparting its trimerization catalyzing effect in the preparations of Heinemann et al. in order to arrive at the processes of applicants' claims with the expectation of success in the absence of a showing of new or unexpected results. In regards to the amounts of catalysts not being specified by Heinemann et al., it has long been held that where the general conditions of the claims are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimal or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233; In re Reese 129 USPQ 402 ., and discovering the optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272,205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 34 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

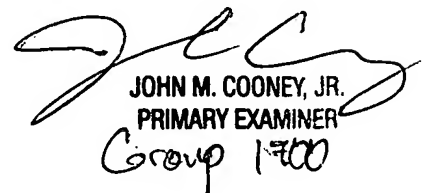

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
